Rec-Well offering community soccer leagues this summer

If you are wondering what to do for fun and exercise this summer, Oakland University's department of University Recreation and Well-Being may have an answer.

Summer soccer season registration is going on now through May 17. The regular season then begins on Wednesday, May 24. The season ends July 13th and the overall league winner will be crowned champions.

The men's soccer leagues will play on Wednesday evenings at 8 and 9 p.m. and on Thursday evenings at 7 p.m.

The co-ed soccer leagues will play on Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m. and on Thursday evenings at 8 and 9 p.m.

For these community leagues, the games will consist of 8 vs. 8 players and take place at the Recreation Center's Athletic Outdoor Complex. All members of the team must be 18 years of age or older, listed on the team roster and complete a waiver. Rosters, waivers and league rules will be sent to team captains following sign up. The cost for registration is $750 per team.

Teams can register online, but if they have never participated in a prior program affiliated with Rec-Well, team captains will need to contact imsports@oakland.edu or call program coordinator Gabrielle Sokol at 248-370-4885 to complete the registration.

Look for more information later this spring on another opportunity to participate in community flag football leagues this summer at Oakland University through the University Recreation and Well-Being department.

The University Recreation and Well-Being department provides a variety of activities to meet the needs of a diverse campus and nearby community members. The department offers both competitive and recreational activities that focus on getting students, faculty, staff and community members involved in activities that promote a lifetime of fitness and wellness practices.
