Oakland University's Center for Civic Engagement, in partnership with the Oakland University Department of Athletics, will host a virtual panel discussion at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 14 about the changing landscape of college athletics with regard to "name, image and likeness" rules, expanded use of the transfer portal and other recent developments.

The panel discussion will be moderated by Rico Beard, from 97.1 The Ticket. He is co-host of "The Mike Valenti Show with Rico" that airs weekdays from 2-6 p.m.

Oakland University men's basketball head coach Greg Kampe (pictured above) will be part of a panel discussion moderated by Detroit sports talk radio personality Rico Beard on October 14. The virtual event also features ESPN basketball analyst Jay Bilas, OU athletic director Steve Waterfield, two OU student athletes and Joe Tate, Michigan State Representative, 2nd District.

The panel will be made up of Jay Bilas, college basketball analyst for ESPN; Michigan State Representative Joe Tate, 2nd District; OU Athletic Director Steve Waterfield; OU Men's Basketball Head Coach Greg Kampe; and student-athletes Madelyn Cislo (swimming and diving) and Jalen Moore (men's basketball).

“Topics for the conversation will include gaining some very diverse opinions on some important recent developments that will lead to college athletics adapting and evolving,” said David Dulio, director of OU's Center for Civic Engagement. “We are very fortunate to have a lineup of experts who can engage in a thoughtful discussion from a wide range of perspectives.”

There is no charge for attending this virtual event. Join the Zoom webinar tonight at 7PM at this link: <https://oakland-edu.zoom.us/j/92801726137?pwd=VnBSQklFVzZpSU5qSzRFdkR2WHBWdz09>
